

Britain's coal free record

Daily share of power generated by burning coal

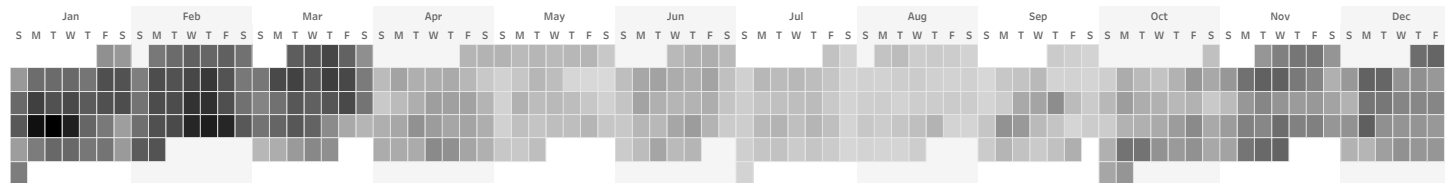

Britain is setting new records for going without coal-powered energy. In the latest milestone, it has gone for two weeks without using coal to generate electricity – the longest such period since 1882.

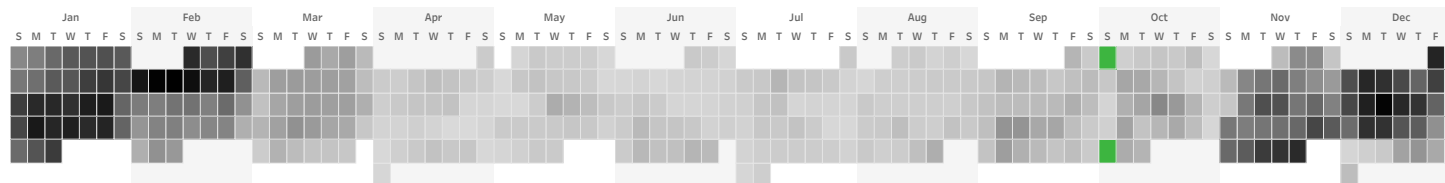

2015

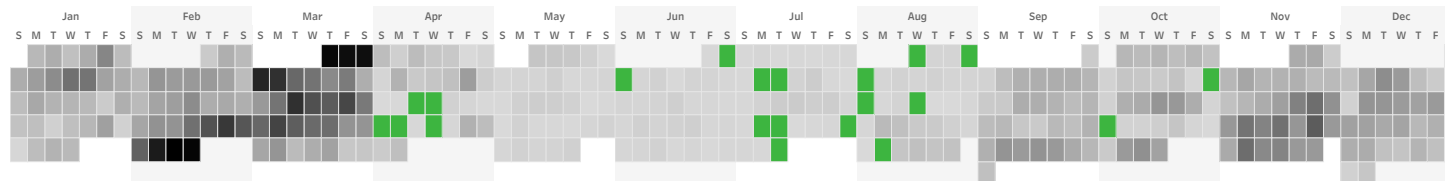

2016

2017

2018

2019

